Association of Independent Information Professionals Honors
Bibliogo with AIIP Technology Award

BATON ROUGE, LA (October 19, 2012) -- The Association of Independent Information Professionals (AIIP) is pleased to name Bibliogo (<http://info.bibliogo.com/>) as the winner of the thirteenth annual AIIP Technology Award. The award will be presented to Bibliogo on October 23, 2012 at the Internet Librarian Conference in Monterey, CA.

Launched in 2011, Bibliogo is a literature acquisition and management tool for life sciences and engineering information professionals.

The AIIP Technology Award recognizes innovative products that enhance the working environment of the independent information professional. Bibliogo has been selected for this year's award based on its ability to manage the researching, tracking, and analysis of scientific literature.

AIIP is also recognizing Datamyne (<http://www.datamyne.com/>) with an honorable mention. Datamyne provides access to import and export trade data with pay-as-you-go pricing, a feature useful to independent information professionals.
